„Chinese Medicine and the Fertile Spirit: Childhood, Nourishment and Long Life“

Jani White

Jani runs a Fertility, Pregnancy and Childbirth practice in Oxford and London, UK. She teaches the Obstetrics and Gynaecology/ Fertility modules of the Oxford Brookes University MA Acupuncture degree, she is the National Coordinator of the AFN, (Acupuncture Fertility Network), and she is also Chair of the Acupuncture Childbirth Team, ACT London. Her company Naturechild runs international conferences for the integration of Chinese and Western medicine for Obstetrics and Gynaecology, and she also teaches courses for midwives and fertility practitioners.

Jani trained at the College of Traditional Acupuncture (CTA) in the 5 Element style. Her post graduate study is ongoing and is steeped in TCM pattern and syndrome differentiation, blended with many of the techniques she has learned in her study of Japanese acupuncture. Much of her post graduate training has been through her western teachers in Obstetrics and Gynaecology, and she has studied extensively in these subjects with Jane Lyttleton and Debra Betts.
